"Treat others the way you would like to be treated yourself."

Message from Mrs Procter to the children.

Hello everyone, I have decided that I will send out a message each week in our newsletter as it is very strange being in school without you. Last week was out first week without you all and it was very quiet!! I know that your teachers have been sending you messages via twitter and email so please make sure you are getting the grown- ups to check each week.

I hope you are all behaving yourselves at home and are helping the grown- ups in your house as they too will be finding this situation very strange. I hope that you are all keeping your bedrooms and toys tidy in the house - just like you do in school!

I would like to set you all a little challenge this week. I would like you all to lead a Collective Worship in your house, you can download lots of ideas from the CAFOD website. Light a candle- it could be a birthday candle if you do not have any other sort and lead your family in a prayer. The grown- ups in your house might not know what to do so you could guide them but remember be patient. I would love to see some photographs of you doing this that I could add to our newsletter next week!!

I know that many of you have been drawing rainbows to put in your window so that people walking past can see them. I am counting how many I can see as I drive to work- so if you haven't done one yet pop one in your window.

I hope you are all having some time to play out in your garden or on your ipad as you need to have sometime to relax. You could try doing some mindfulness like we do before school by logging onto

Stay safe and I look forward to getting your pictures of your collective worship, send them to schooloffice@christtheking.wirral.sch.uk
