

LO: I can use suspense in my writing

Today you are going to use the techniques you have been learning to create your own escape from Pompeii paragraphs. Look at the example which Mrs Hughes has written on the next page to give you ideas of what might be effective.

Try to include the following things:

- * Fronted adverbials
- * Powerful verbs
- * Short sentences
- * Interesting setting description
- * Characters feelings.
- * Inverted commas for speech.

LO: I can use suspense in my writing

Then, in one terrible endless moment, they heard mighty Mount Vesuvius roar. Its top exploded in a scream and flames ripped upwards to the sky. A massive cloud of silver ash rose to the heavens, twisting and bubbling in every direction until everything was in total darkness. The children froze.

Lightning flashed and thunder roared. Streams of molten liquid flowed in fast rivers down the mountain slopes and covered a nearby town. The walls, streets and gardens of their beloved Pompeii disappeared beneath a blanket of ash and stones. Before their very eyes, everything and everyone they had ever loved was destroyed.

Tranio and Livia held each other desperately as the steaming lava reached the sea itself. The water began to swell against the sides of the boat as it moved slowly out to safety.

"Oh Tranio, its gone, our home, everyone is gone." Livia choked, her eyes filling with tears. They had left just in time. Soon, the sea sank back from the shore and even the fishes were stranded there.
