LO: I can use similes in my writing.

- Say something is like something else

Similes can be used to make description even more exciting. We can use these when we say something is like something else.

The trees were as tall as towers.

The leaves were as green as emeralds.

The branches stretched out like arms.

The forest was shadowy, enchanted and teeming with life. The tall, towering tree tops stood like soldiers lining the pathway to grandma's rickety, old house. Light filtered through the trees like moon beams illuminating a speckling of mushrooms and flowers which brought some magical colour to the otherwise soft, muddy floor.

As she walked on happily, little Red, Riding Hood could hear a choir of animals. Birds sang like musicians as they danced and darted around the tree tops. Scurrying little creatures crunched and rustled through the leaves on the floor.
